Welcoming Fleet, Suddenly
Called to Spezzia, Unable to Meet Visitors.

JACKIES ARE SIGHTSEEING

Ambassador Page to Entertain
Officers in Rome
This Week.

Special Cable Dispatch to The Sun.
NAPLES, Nov. 8.—The United States battleships Arkansas and Florida, which arrived here today, exchanged salutes with Admiral Cattolico's flagship, the Piafina, which is the only Italian warship in port, as the squadron under the Duke of the Abruzzi, which was sent here to welcome the American fleet, was suddenly ordered to Spezzia preparatory to sailing for Tripoli.

Lieutenant-Commander Drace White, United States Naval Attaché at Rome, and United States Consul Hendley went aboard the Arkansas to greet Rear Admiral Winslow. The Duke of Aosta, who is at Turin, sent an aid to express his regret at being unable to welcome the Americans personally and that he hoped to be able to come to Naples before the fleet leaves.

Many of the officers have already begun sightseeing, especially at Pompeii. Admiral Cattolico has invited Rear Admiral Winslow and his staff to dinner aboard the Italian flagship. A dinner will be given for the officers by Ambassador Page at Rome next week. The Italian authorities are giving the Americans every facility to enjoy their visit. The ships will be here until November 30. The Wyoming, which is at Malta, is expected here Wednesday next for a week's stay. The Connecticut and the Kansas are at Genoa. After the formal salutes and exchange of official visits the crews of the Arkansas and the Florida got shore leave and are bustling to get everything they can as fast as possible, as they expect to be called back shortly on account of the situation in Mexico.

Lieutenant-Commander White gave out a statement today that the visit of the fleet to Italian waters has no political significance and was designed merely to test the ships on long distance cruises and give the officers and men an opportunity to visit Italy after a long period of hard work.

LIBERALS NOT SO POPULAR.

Unionists Blasted Over Result of Scottish By-election.

Special Cable Dispatch to The Sun.
LONDON, Nov. 8.—Anti-home rulers were greatly elated today by the result of the by-election in Linlithgowshire, Scotland, where J. W. Pratt, Liberal candidate for the House of Commons, was elected over James Kidd, Unionist, by the narrow margin of 221 votes. In 1910 the Liberals had a majority of 2,070 in the same constituency.

Home rule for Ireland was almost the sole issue in the by-election and because of the Liberals' poor showing in Scotland, Unionists are asserting that the country is dissatisfied with Parliament's home rule action.

The Liberal candidate for the Reading division in the election of a member of Parliament necessitated by the appointment as Lord Chief Justice of Sir Rufus Isaacs, who represented the constituency, was defeated by his Unionist opponent by a majority of 1,132.

The result was Wilson (Unionist) 2,144; Gooch (Liberal) 4,912; Butler (Socialist) 1,062.

There was intense excitement throughout the polling. Sir Rufus Isaacs won the last election by a majority of only 99.

and Unsanitary Areas.

Special Cable Dispatch to The Sun.

The Government intends to empower the municipalities to acquire land at its real market value and also to reform the leasehold system and to amend to unjust rating assessments.

He declared the new King, as he read the brief formula provided by the Bavarian Constitution. A salute of 101 guns boomed over the city as the ceremony was concluded.

STEINTHAL TRIAL BEGINS.

Prosecution Refuses to Call Prince zu Eulenberg as Witness.

Special Cable Dispatch to The Sun.
BERLIN, Nov. 8.—When the trial of Herr Steintal, the newspaper publisher accused of having bribed Count von Huelssen-Haack, director of the royal theatres, was begun here today the prosecution declined to call Prince Philipp zu Eulenberg, chief of the notorious "Round Table," as a witness. The prosecution refused also the request of the defence that Carl Clewing, one of the persons mentioned in the article on which the libel suit is based, be called to the witness stand.

The charge is that Herr Steintal accused Count von Huelssen-Haack of showing favoritism in engaging actors and actresses for the theatres under his direction and that conditions which were exposed in the famous trial of Maximilian Harden, the director of the members of the "Round Table" gathering, were still existent in the royal theatres. The case was adjourned until November 14.

Prince Philipp zu Eulenberg, who collapsed in the course of his trial for perjury, has been living in retirement at his castle in Liebenberg. The trial has never been resumed, on the ground that the health of the accused man did not permit his appearance in court.

Dr. Magnus Hirschfeld, a noted expert on degeneracy, will be a witness at the Steintal trial.

Herr Schinkel, the chairman, deprecated rumors to the effect that business had been bad, saying that on the contrary it was excellent in the past year, the company having as a matter of fact been forced to charter foreign vessels for 124 voyages. He said there was no ground for the rumor that the United States had been forced to charter vessels for the four years that the United States had been in the war. French Naval Critic Says We Forget "The Japanese Lake."

Special Cable Dispatch to The Sun.
PARIS, Nov. 8.—The Touche publishes an article on the American navy today signed by M. Rousseau, who is looked on as the Capt. Mahan of France. The writer says the United States has been fortunate in many naval innovations, having solved the problem of danger of explosions on shipboard with which France is always menaced. He says the United States navy was the best for the navy, which was neglected under Taft, and President Wilson's Administration seems to be marking time. The article closes with these words: "The Japanese lake, namely the Pacific, has apparently been forgotten in 1913."

Special Cable Dispatch to The Sun.
BERLIN, Nov. 8.—The Minister of the Interior has given permission to Amundson, the discoverer of the south pole, to speak in Norwegian in his lecture at Posenburg, in Schleswig-Holstein, on November 16. The authorities of Schleswig-Holstein feared that, owing to the similarity between Danish and Norwegian, anti-Germans feeling would be aroused among those in Amundson's audience who still look back with regret at the incorporation of the duchy of Schleswig, formerly part of Denmark, in the German Empire in 1867.

MAY PUT HIS MOTHER IN JAIL.

Son Gets Court Order Because He Wasn't Paid $4,000.

A son may send his mother to jail unless she pays him $4,000 immediately under a decision of Supreme Court Justice Meachum yesterday. The mother is Mrs. Cora A. Coffin, who was appointed general guardian of her son Everett, who was seriously injured in the Park avenue tunnel wreck in 1902 and got a verdict of $12,500 against the railroad company.

At the time the money was paid by the railroad company young Coffin was only 16 years old and the money was turned over to his mother. The boy got married not long afterward, although a cripple. After he came of age he demanded $4,000, but found that his father had suffered reverses and that the money was gone.

Coffin got judgment against his mother in the Supreme Court and she was directed to account to him for the money due. This she failed to do. The son then asked to have her committed for contempt of court. Justice Meachum was compelled to grant the motion.

A reasonable time will be allowed Mrs. Coffin to comply with the court order.

QUALITY—AND ECONOMY

are attributes of every instrument displayed at Aeolian Hall, from the impressive Steinway Grand Pianola to the remarkably low-priced Stroud. Quality especially—for quality is the dominating feature of Aeolian instruments. Substantial recognition of this superior quality is found in the distinguished clientele of The Aeolian Company.

But the recognized supremacy of Aeolian instruments does not imply high prices. No other house in the music industries can build so economically as The Aeolian Company. Nine great factories in America—three in Europe—create important economic advantages not possessed by any other manufacturer of musical instruments.

Quality—distinctive quality—coupled with economy, is value—and value is the very foundation of Aeolian success.

The Pianola

"The World's Greatest Musical Instrument"

THE development of the Pianola to its present remarkable perfection is the most epochal achievement in the modern world of music. It can be compared only with the development of the piano itself.

The piano is the most satisfactory solo instrument—the most adaptable instrument—and so it was the universal musical instrument of the home, until the coming of the Pianola. The Pianola has won the supremacy from the piano, for it is the piano and infinitely more.

The piano brought to the home only the medium of musical expression—the Pianola supplies the medium, and the technique as well—every requirement for musical expression.

The Pianola is absolutely distinctive from every other instrument of its type—as far above so-called player-pianos in musical capacity as the true artist, is above the amateur musician.

Player-pianos, so-called, are not Pianolas. There is but one Pianola. It is made only by The Aeolian Company, and is obtainable in the following models only—Steinway, Steck, Wheelock, Stuyvesant, Stroud and famous Weber Pianolas. Prices from $550 upwards. Convenient monthly payments.

The beautiful Victor Salon at Aeolian Hall is the most complete and perfectly appointed Victor Store in the world. Prompt, courteous and intelligent service. Victor-Victrolas from $15 up. Payments as low as $2 monthly. Come in tomorrow and hear the latest records.

From Her Pet in Midoccean.

Special Cable Dispatch to The Sun.
LONDON, Nov. 8.—Mr. and Mrs. William F. McCombs, who left today for Liverpool to catch the Mauretania after their wedding yesterday, could not be seen before the boat train left Euston, but their trunks were placed in the baggage car and it was said they were aboard the train and did not want to be interviewed.

Former Commissioner of Immigration Williams, who is returning to America after the marriage of his sister to Gen. Crozier, said he had not changed his view of the restriction of immigration into the United States is a prime necessity.

Somerset Maugham, the playwright, said he was going to the United States for a holiday and to supervise the production of his new play, "The Land of Promise."

Daniel Guzenheim is going back to New York with his wife and daughter after their annual trip to the Continent. "We have cut off our airmail," said Mrs. Guzenheim, "so we hope to get through the customs without any delay."

Gaby Deslys, who is accompanied by her partner, Harry Picer, and her daughter, a young girl named Pearl, and a black velvet plumed hat, was seen by the snapshot brigade. She has a live hen with her and expects to have fresh eggs in midocean. She opens at Chicago November 17 in "The Little Parisienne" with a new dance. After that she goes to San Francisco and then returns to New York. She said she has forgiven the Bishop of Kensington and other ecclesiastics who disapprove of her dancing.

Others who left by the Mauretania are Emilie Pacha, the painter and sculptor; Grant Richards, Mrs. James Reynolds and George H. Riven.

GIRLS RESCUED BY ROOSEVELTS

place. They called Col. Roosevelt a "deaf" and declared that they never could pay the debt of gratitude they owed Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Bradley in saving them from that Rio place.

Congratulations by Wireless.
When they were several hundred miles at sea they received a dozen messages of congratulations from the Vandeycks, on her way to Buenos Ayres. Capt. Cadogan and the officers of the ship sent it.

"Everybody delighted. Best wishes." The message sent by Mrs. Roosevelt, the Colonel and other cabin passengers who had befriended the young women was:

"Everybody awfully pleased and happy. All send good wishes." Miss Gladys and her friend have letters from the Colonel and Mrs. Roosevelt to friends of the Roosevelts in this city. Miss Gladys said after she landed in Brooklyn yesterday that she would never appear in vaudeville again. She may try to make a living by acting for moving pictures. She will stop with her aunt in Manhattan until she finds out exactly what she will do. It is not unlikely that some of her letters to Mrs. Roosevelt's friends may help her to win a living, possibly as a parlor entertainer.

She says she had the impression when she signed the contract that she and her friend were going to appear under the management of an American theatrical man in Rio. They were much surprised to learn the character, or the lack of character, of the place in which they were expected to play. They first heard of it from a fellow passenger by the Vandeyck, William Mackenzie of this city, who has charge of a light and power company in Rio and knows the city.

Miss Gladys praises the dancing of the Colonel, particularly in the Virginia reel, which she and Miss Shore danced with him.

KRUPP TRIAL ENDS AND BRANDT GETS 4 MONTHS

But He Has Already Served
the Term—Eccius
Fined $300.

Special Cable Dispatch to The Sun.
BERLIN, Nov. 8.—Maximilian Brandt, formerly chief Berlin agent for the Krupp armament works, and Otto Eccius, one of the directors of the firm, were found guilty today of having bribed German ordnance officers to obtain information of value to the company to secure ordnance contracts from the Government.

Brandt was sentenced to four months imprisonment, which was regarded as having been served, as he has been in prison since the trial began, and Eccius was fined $300.

Counsel for the defence spoke for three hours in the summing up. He contended that the "corruptors," or secret army reports, which Brandt obtained, were in no way detrimental to the army, and the rivals of the Krupps could not by any possibility be affected by them. He said the Krupps have only been replying to attacks directed against the firm since 1905. The lawyer admitted that the directors had obtained information in a roundabout way and expressed regret for anything done in this respect which might have been culpable. He denied, however, that any of the directors consented to corruption and said that Eccius had scarcely anything to do with the management of the Berlin office.

Eccius told how he had left the German Foreign Office to take a position with the Krupps. He said he was always animated with the principle of the words engraved on the Krupp monument: "Let your aim be the common weal." The whole foreign business of the firm, he said, had one object—to keep the shops busy so as to be ready when the Fatherland called upon them, and this had been his guiding motive throughout.

In passing sentence the court said that the Krupps enjoyed at one time a special position regarding artillery armament contracts, but that it lost it owing to the high prices charged for munitions. This was the reason why it employed Brandt, who carried on his bribery methods almost continuously.

The maintenance of secrecy in communications from the firm to Brandt was not necessary, said the court, in the interest of the national defence as far as the Krupps were concerned. The judge went on to say that Eccius must have known that Brandt was paying army officers with Krupp money. This was a serious reflection on the German army administration, but there was no stain on German officialdom in general.

Eccius, he added, could not have adequately supervised Brandt's actions and hence he was guilty only of complicity. There were many extenuating circumstances in the case of Eccius, but not in that of Brandt.
